

Elizabeth Waltman

MLIS Candidate, University of Pittsburgh Health Sciences Librarian Intern, Duquesne University

ewaltman1.ew@gmail.com
(717) 228-7963

---

References

American Music Therapy Association. (2013). AMTA standards of clinical practice. Retrieved from <https://www.musictherapy.org/about/standards/>

American Music Therapy Association. (2015). A descriptive statistical profile of the 2015 AMTA membership. Retrieved from <http://www.musictherapy.org/assets/1/7/15WorkforceAnalysis.pdf>

American Music Therapy Association. (n.d.-a). Definitions and quotes about music therapy. Retrieved from <https://www.musictherapy.org/about/quotes/>

American Music Therapy Association. (n.d.-b). Strategic priority on research. Retrieved from https://www.musictherapy.org/research/strategic\_priority\_on\_research/overview/

Gonzalez, J. (2018, January 30). At Children's Hospital, music is a form of treatment for young patients. NPR: WESA Pittsburgh. Retrieve from <http://wesa.fm/post/childrens-hospital-music-form-treatment-young-patients#stream/0>

Northern Ireland Executive. (n.d.). Music therapist Jenny Kirkwood works with a pupil at Tor Bank School in Dundonald, Northern Ireland. Retrieved from <https://www.flickr.com/photos/niexecutive/16935941915>

Pixabay. (2015). Ukuleles line a wall. Retrieved from <https://pixabay.com/en/music-instrument-musical-acoustic-989909/>

The Certification Board for Music Therapists. (n.d.). Purpose. Retrieved from <http://www.cbmt.org/recertification/purpose/>

Voisin-Demery, F. (2013). Toy xylophone. Retrieved from https://commons.wikimedia.org/wiki/File:Toy\_xylophone.jpg